Sure, you can check Netflix.com, use the app on your phone, or stream Netflix to your TV to search via video, but there are actually a few other tools you can take advantage of. Netflix's default search abilities aren't as good as what some third-party Netflix tools offer. With some of the websites below, you can browse all Netflix movies or TV shows based on the genre, as well as filter results by rating and year, something That Netflix doesn't allow on its website or app. Soon On Netflix Soon On Netflix is a website that tells you what will be available soon on Netflix. If you're always wondering what new shows and movies come to Netflix or when your favorite series comes out with a new season, you need the site. You can find shows or browse the homepage for all the movies and shows coming out really soon. The website also shows you a TV showing Netflix has been cancelled and the shows that have ended for good. The Full List of Movies on Netflix This site is mandatory to do if you are a very selector Netflix observer. Reelgood.com has a full list of movies and shows that you can watch on Netflix, complete with five filtering options so you can find something specific. You can sort by type (movie or TV show), IMDb score, Rotten Tomatoes rating, year of release and genre. For example, maybe you're in the mood for an action movie rated at least 7.0 on IMDb and not lower than 50% on Rotten Tomatoes, but you also want it to have been released sometime after 2000. Once you get those results, you can also sort them out with all the ratings, see the latest movies first, or the highest rated ones. Netflix Roulette Netflix Roulette is another tool from the Reelgood.com it's perfect if you don't know what to watch on Netflix but you're too lazy to actually see the full list. Just make a game out of it, and let this tool choose for you. Netflix Roulette just wants you to think. It chooses a movie or a random TV show from any genre. But that's not all. You can also choose a minimum IMDb rating and/or a Foul Tomato score to further improve the results. If you don't like the results, you can press the SPIN button as much as possible to get a new video recommended to watch on Netflix. When you're ready, simply press Watch to open a movie in your browser. What's on Netflix What's on Netflix is a website dedicated to all things Netflix. See what's new on the website, what's to come, movies and that leaves Netflix soon, the Netflix news, the Netflix original, and the entire list of Netflix libraries. The Netflix catalog compiles all movies, shows, and documentaries alphabetically so you can search for immediately find any title. It is also listed by TV networks, decades, genres, features (for example, interactive, concerts, 4K), and franchises (such as DC films). The list of Netflix Categories pages is also incredible. Ordinary. Allows you to browse the main genres to find cult movies, thrillers, dramas, action movies, etc. However, there are thousands of others who are more specific ways and can be more useful in finding your next movie or TV show. To use a secret Netflix category search, find something, such as an actor's name or a genre. The list will fill in the results immediately, including the category ID number on the right. This is the number you need to find a secret category on Netflix. Replace # in the URL below with a number from the results, and then visit the page in your browser. Chinese crime dramas are categorized with 371.ID, so that the URL will be . Another fun area on What's on Netflix is the most Popular on the Netflix site Right Now, which tries to list the top 25 titles on Netflix. Reddit's /NetflixBestOf Sometimes, the best way to know what to watch on Netflix is to communicate with other real people. There is an entire subreddit on Reddit dedicated to users posting about their favorite Netflix TV shows and movies. You can sort posts by Top to see some of the more popular posts, or New to see what's going on right now. With over a million members, the subreddit/r/NetflixBestOf is a great source of feedback from other Netflix users, meaning it's a wonderful method for you to find some great new flick. Netflix Party Netflix Party is a Chrome connection that allows you to watch movies with your friends. It has a chat window on the side of the video player so everyone can chat about movies in real time. Party creators can also pause videos for everyone at once. To create a Netflix party with this extension, one needs to start a party and create a URL, and then share it with others. Everyone also needs access to netflix connections and accounts; shared links do not share Netflix login details. Details.
